

stated that in the council meetings that residential zoned areas are no place for marijuana grow facilities and I couldn't agree more. But the fact is they live on agriculture zoned areas, they live in houses on farms or dwellings NOT residentially zoned areas. It is also my understanding that marijuana is a crop and crops are grown on farms.

It was at the next Lakeshore council meeting where the town voted that medical marijuana grow facilities should be zoned in industrial zoned areas, my question is how can they change the zoning by-law after a facility is built and waiting for inspection? Why would they put a farm in an industrial zoned area? How can you change the rules after everything is already complete? How can you act like you don't know what's going on on land that your city has issued permits for? The fact is that everything the company has done on the property has been 100% legal and by the book. It's the town that has changed their stance and zoning by-laws after the fact to try and hold up progress made by the company. There are even statements made by mayor Bain that the stock would drop after they voted for industrial zoning, he also stated that there would be a lawsuit and that he could guarantee it. Why would he make these statements unless he knew they changed the rules after the fact?

Let's talk about the Globe and Mail. Since about November of last year every time FITX stock had a good trading day, the Globe and Mail would come out with a negative article or a bash piece which would drive the stock price back down. It also seems that all of their articles are opinions of some and not factually based as they never report their sources. It also seems odd that the Globe would report confidential private company information before the company is even contacted. What I'm referring to is the letter from Health Canada to deny licensure to Cen Biotech. Yes that's right, the Globe and Mail reported on a Friday that Health Canada issued a letter to deny a license to Cen Biotech four days before the company was informed. So my question is how can the Globe get confidential information unless it was leaked to them by Health Canada?

So the question I ask is this, are you investigating the right people? Because there seems to be a lot of collusion going on between health Canada the town of Lakeshore and the newspaper the Globe and Mail.

I've been an investor in this company for about a year. I plan on being an investor in this company for years to come. I have never been misled by the company, Bill Chaaban or any of its employees. I share their vision helping patients that are in need of their medicine.

Yours truly,

Roxanne,

Here are some screenshots and a formal complaint that I filed with the SEC back in July concerning a member of the IHUB community impersonating a Canadian public official in order to manipulate the stock. He went by rolphotonair on IHUB and then had a false Facebook account under the name Eddie Jorge Falco. I was able to do a Google image search and connected the FB user profile to be the same as one Eddie Tsao of Toronto. I can not say for certain that the person responsible for the fraud is Eddie Tsao, but that it what I found.

I have also included screenshots of a Twitter conversation that I had with Chris Parry of Stockhouse.com where he admits to being a paid stock promoter. He has been the author of many negative article about Creative Edge Nutrition and CEN Biotech.

Best regards,

Minister Ambrose

I am a shareholder with FITX, a US OTC company. The following people have been publishing on the internet and national Canadian newspapers false and misleading statements about FITX.

Grant Robertson
Matt Finston
Chris Parry

It is my strong view that these individuals deliberately caused the stock price fall and influenced the decision by Health Canada to reject a license application to grow Medical Marijuana.

If your role is to protect investors from stock manipulation then I believe you have a responsibility to protect me from their manipulation.

Thank you,

Hello,

To who it may concern, I am an investor in Cen Biotech FITX, (pink sheets) for close to about a year and a half now, and during this time I have watched this company build a state of the art facility, comply with all the rules and regulations. Bend over backwards for health Canada and the town of Lakeshore who welcomed them to town only to recently turn against the company in the 11th hour, they have been very open and transparent as possible with all parties involved up to this point.

However the runaround they are getting is beyond ridiculous! They have many people seemingly going out of their way to try and stop, block and fight them at every turn. Not only is this unethical but it is down right childish and complete bullshit. The people like Grant Roberson of the Globe that writes negatively about Cen Biotech at every possible chance he gets or every tidbit of information that he alleges to get. He and others like him are purposely potentially destroying lives and stealing money from investors/ workers by wrongfully steering people away from Cen Biotech by constantly spinning information and presenting the company in a negative way. Not to mention the potential lives of people who need medical marijuana for medical reasons.

This may be just a game for people like Grant Roberson but I take this personal. They are trying to flat out steal my hard earned money that I have invested by presenting lies and half truths, would you like it if somebody tried to steal your money through deception and lies? I sure as hell don't!

My hope in sending this letter is for the truth to come out and for all this nonsense to cease, Cen Biotech has done everything asked of them by Health Canada only to be denied a license and get a bunch of runaround and putting up with politics. All at the cost of potentially destroying lives. The bible says men reap what they sow. This is an eternal truth, the lies n nonsense that has taken place will come back to visit the people who are willfully trying to destroy this company/investors/future patients lives. So I encourage whomever is reading this please do the right thing have integrity be a good person and do something about this wrongful stuff that is taking place against Cen Biotech.

Ms. Ambrose:

It has been brought to my attention that the OSC began an open investigation into the operations of Cen Biotech, US ticker FITX. I have been a shareholder since November of 2013, as Cen Biotech was being courted by both Lakeshore Mayor Tom Bain, Sandra Pupatello and Health Canada to build a world class, cutting edge medical marijuana company. The statements made to the public were that CEN will bring in jobs and new tax rolls to the community of Lakeshore, Essex. The January of 2014 press conference and announcement with Mayor Bain, Sandra Papatello, CEO Bill Chaaban and others was an incredible demonstration of support by the Mayor and VP of Economic Development Sandra Pupatello. This was a benchmark and vital turning point for not only myself but thousands of other investors but CEN Biotech as it confirmed the support by the local government to build. As an aside, I am not a novice investor and have over 20 years conducting due diligence and investing both in public and private companies. I know a great opportunity when I see one and CEN clearly was on track and verified by the government officials in lockstep together.

Please review this leading indicator from Mayor Bain and CEO Economic Development Sandra Pupatello.

<https://vimeo.com/83685127>

Mr Chaaban has always been 100% accurate, honest and has always looked out for the shareholders best interests. He assembled an all star Board of Directors that consisted of Wall Street top executives, the worlds most prominent SEC whistleblower and top research scientists. All of which are aimed to create and develop new treatments for children suffering from deadly seizures and many other inoperable acute diseases. I happen to be one of the patients who would benefit the most as a recent cancer survivor and look to CEN as a pioneer of this new industry.

This isn't only about making money as you may now see, it is a life's dream for Mr Chaaban, myself and millions of others fighting off incurable disease and suffering through the same old big Pharma script to pop more pills path to nowhere. Mr Chaaban, the BOD and their team NEVER and I mean NEVER once misled myself or anyone that I know (which is in the thousands), that have invested into CEN. I have a significant investment into CEN and absolutely reject this notion and condemn anyones efforts to paint this negative picture.

When Mr Chaaban began this project, he raised private capital and invested millions of his own funds to launch the buildout. Todd Cain and others cleared the path for CEN or any company to follow the established MMPR compliancy laws, and if a company does complete the steps, they would be rewarded a license to grow. CEN met and even raised all criteria along the way and was given the final inspection on July 31, 2014. Per the CEN timeline, the HC inspector stated that CEN could expect license within 1-2 weeks. HC then shut off the communications to CEN and in the process the dark underbelly of the OTC markets appeared and commenced on unprecedented attacks on CEN. From July 31, 2014 through today there have been dozens of articles publishes, racist videos made and personal threats of bodily harm to Mr Chabaan and others involved as shareholders and employees. One such basher, Chris Pary even tweeted to the employer of a long shareholder with the intent to make this shareholder lose their employment. There are many other threats and disgusting acts that occurred targeting CEN and everyone involved during this period while CEN was waiting on final approval (per inspectors/MMPR laws).

Mr Chabaan has had to continue to fund the Lakeshore and other business activities while waiting for 8 months to receive a "letter to deny" from Health Canada. This is unacceptable as all other LP's were issued license in a few weeks or short months. CEN has followed and raised the bar for all other applicants to follow, meanwhile being left to spend $14M to build and then keep the lights on, payroll and funding the project with no license and corporate revenues recognized.

The OSC investigators and media must be aware of the forces that are trying to stop CEN from succeeding and realize this is a huge business venture that many other big pharma, current and potential LP's find CEN's 1.3Mlb application to grow their biggest threat.

<http://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/windsor/cen-biotech-marijuana-application-to-be-denied-by-health-canada-1.2958957>

This entire effort has been a coordinated attack to destroy CEN from the first day by Matt Finston, (Seeking Alpha writer), Jason Spatafora, aka Wolf of Weedstreet, Alan Brochstein Founder 420investments, Chris Parry, Vancouver Sun blogger and now they've recruited Grant Robertson of the Globe & Mail. This group of individuals have relentlessly written over 80 articles, thousands of tweets, Investors Hub, Investor Hangout, and created multiple social media FaceBook pages strictly to besmirch Mr Chaaban and harm my investment for over a year. I must tell you that your organization is investigating the wrong company and people. Unfortunately, you may have been indirectly or directly misled by this ring of bashers manipulative means to influence and paint an inaccurate and libelous picture of Mr Chaaban and CEN. I implore this body to look into the individuals mentioned also included should be the activities of Seeking Alpha, 420Investments, Wolf of Weedstreet, Chris Parry, Grant Robertson, Investors Hub. This group has a very dubious background, many with criminal backgrounds and ties to established felons whom are known for stock manipulation or worse.

Also the timing of a former G&M colleague of Grants, Tara Perkins whom in November 2014 left for a position in a large financial tied to Privateer/holding company of Tilray. Tilray is a private MMPR Licensed Producer and has ties to Libby Davies, Liberal Party, MP BC. In fact in December of 2014, a former Davies staffer and now lobbyist for Tilray, Stephen Hawkins met with Davies on record. Within a few weeks Robertson published Davies calling for an investigation into CEN and for HC to deny license with no factual data to support this unfounded and ridiculous claim. Is this all a coincidence or something much more? HC was then found to provide access to CEN's application to Davies and other non essential politicians for licensure at during the same time period. Within days, Tilray announced it's intentions to import/export with the same countries that CEN had in it's business plan and application. While Tilray or any other LP had ever previously mentioned this strategy, and many vilified Mr Chaaban for traveling to the Ukraine and other potential distribution partners. This potentially illegal activity warrants a full investigation.

With a simple Google search, you will be able to substantiate this and all claims. I believe based on the timeline of events and statements made by this group from early 2014. This occurred when non-issues such as zoning in Lakeshore was approved agriculture and never an issue. You will find they coordinated this entire attack which influenced Mayor Bain, and the entire Lakeshore council to the point where they now claim to not even know what CEN was there to do in the first place. Now either Bain and council have complete memory loss, or there's something much more going on there. In Lakeshore meetings last summer and fall, Salmons, Bain, Steve Bezaire and others were caught on a hot microphone laughing about how their zoning change post approval of AG to Industrial, would "effect the price of the stock tomorrow". There was signed documents with approved zoning for Agriculture from Bain, Salmons et all from November of 2013, which is what began the permitting and build out of the facilities.

Steve Salmons, Lakeshore council member is on record stating that he actively pursued CEN for the Lakeshore project to grow and package medical marijuana in September, 2014 Lakeshore Council meeting. As well as numerous other interviews where Mayor Bain openly discussed his excitement for the project, until he decided late summer of 2014 that he no longer knew about the projects infections. I find the timing of the complete change of heart and loss of memory incredibly well timed with the removal of Todd Cain from Health Canada. Health Canada's public support for CEN by issuing the coveted Ready to Build approval and final inspection on July 31, 2014 only re-assured the company and shareholders that everything was on track and the company was compliant.

<http://johnconroy.com/pdf/Allard-Defendants-Affidavits-Trial/Cain-2-Affidavit-1-of-3-pp-1-120.pdf>

I find the below quote by Salmons quite perplexing and disturbing considering Salmons was the one whom actively recruited Mr Chaaban to use their land in Lakeshore to build this project. Some might wonder that maybe he just forgot all of the documents signed, meetings had and public confirmations made to the public about the clear intent of the CEN project. Please compare the statements made by Salmons then to now, one must ask themselves, what materially changed? Again, was it simply a mistake and they forgot what the Council had approved and led both CEN and the public to believe, or is there something more nefarious at play?

<http://www.otcmarkets.com/stock/FITX/news?id=88675>

"It's hard to say what they need because we don't have a complete application from them on exactly what it is they want to do," Salmons said. "They have indicated they want to grow medical marijuana on the site. For us, there is no application or proposal."

<http://blogs.windsorstar.com/news/proposed-lakeshore-medical-marijuana-plant-still-needs-services-approvals>

Grant Robertson of the Globe & Mail in December 19, 2014 began an "investigative report" on CEN. Robertson not only quoted Mr Finston, Mr Brochstein and Parry, he even posted Finston's picture as a recognition or tribute to his self proclaimed heroism while appearing to establish Finston into martyrdom. Since December, Robertson has published over 12 slam articles which are mostly cut and paste efforts where he twists and manipulates the words from Health Canada, Mr Chabaan and all other "sources". This without ever providing actual sources, this is not ethical journalism by any measure. Robertson pretends to be objective, however, has never once provided the opposing point of view, in light of numerous emails from dozens of shareholders imploring him to do so and be objective.

Then Robertson appeared to break the law with Health Canada official Stephane Shank. Shank appeared to break the privacy laws per the MMPR and Canadian rights and leaked critical information to Robertson. Shank then even emailed several civilians with the official statement of the Intent to Deny letter before CEN officials were made aware. The HC MMPR program seems to be an incompetent and ineffective, yet crucial arm of the government which is doing a disservice to the tax paying citizens of Canada.

This article was the first of his series to slam the company on the weekend or days where the company had a strong stock day. The timing seems dubious at any level as it appears to be an effort to push the PPS down for others to continue to manipulate, by shorting and distorting and other unscrupulous efforts. Each article he published follows a strong trading day for FITX.

<http://www.theglobeandmail.com/report-on-business/how-much-does-ottawa-know-about-the-medical-marijuana-companies-its-licensing/article22008885/>

It was recently brought to my attention that an alias "newmedman" on InvestorsHub message board, who has relentlessly bashed the FITX stock for over year with dozens of inaccurate statements daily is actually Tom Bains nephew. Attached is a screenshot from today with respect to their job being done as they said "it's over anyway". when another basher alias was banned for making fun of a FITX long members son's death. We're dealing with unscrupulous people with no morals and ethics which I firmly believe with anecdotal and actual evidence. This is all because a company applied, received and passed all of the rigorous steps from the HC ever evolving MMPR process. CEN's sole intent is to create new medicines for the ailing current and future Canadian and global citizens.

I appreciate your time reading this critical information and look forward to a fair, open and balanced review to finally disclose the truth as the facts provided should lead you to find.

Best,

http://blogs.windsorstar.com/news/proposed-lakeshore-medical-marijuana-plant-still-needs-services-approvals

Grant Robertson of the Globe & Mail in December 19, 2014 began an "investigative report" on CEN. Robertson not only quoted Mr Finston, Mr Brochstein and Parry, he even posted Finston's picture as a recognition or tribute to his self proclaimed heroism while appearing to establish Finston into martyrdom. Since December, Robertson has published over 12 slam articles which are mostly cut and paste efforts where he twists and manipulates the words from Health Canada, Mr Chabaan and all other "sources". This without ever providing actual sources, this is not ethical journalism by any measure. Robertson pretends to be objective, however, has never once provided the opposing point of view, in light of numerous emails from dozens of shareholders imploring him to do so and be objective.

Then Robertson appeared to break the law with Health Canada official Stephane Shank. Shank appeared to break the privacy laws per the MMPR and Canadian rights and leaked critical information to Robertson. Shank then even emailed several civilians with the official statement of the Intent to Deny letter before CEN officials were made aware. The HC MMPR program seems to be an incompetent and ineffective, yet crucial arm of the government which is doing a disservice to the tax paying citizens of Canada.

This article was the first of his series to slam the company on the weekend or days where the company had a strong stock day. The timing seems dubious at any level as it appears to be an effort to push the PPS down for others to continue to manipulate, by shorting and distorting and other unscrupulous efforts. Each article he published follows a strong trading day for FITX.

http://www.theglobeandmail.com/report-on-business/how-much-does-ottawa-know-about-the-medical-marijuana-companies-its-licensing/article22008885/

It was recently brought to my attention that an alias "newmedman" on InvestorsHub message board, who has relentlessly bashed the FITX stock for over year with dozens of inaccurate statements daily is actually Tom Bains nephew. Attached is a screenshot from today with respect to their job being done as they said "it's over anyway". when another basher alias was banned for making fun of a FITX long members son's death. We're dealing with unscrupulous people with no morals and ethics which I firmly believe with anecdotal and actual evidence. This is all because a company applied, received and passed all of the rigorous steps from the HC ever evolving MMPR process. CEN's sole intent is to create new medicines for the ailing current and future Canadian and global citizens.

I appreciate your time reading this critical information and look forward to a fair, open and balanced review to finally disclose the truth as the facts provided should lead you to find.

Best,

Hello.

We received documentation showing that CEN Biotech has filed against the Minister of Health through the federal court system.

First, is there anyone from the company who can confirm this?

Also, is anyone from the company available to comment?

There are many allegations in this suit including that Health Canada officials committed that CEN Biotech would be issued a license.

You've been very candid with us in the past and I look forward to hearing from you again.

Thanks,

Here is my letter to OSC, please do not show my name or email. I hope I helped.

On Saturday, March 28, 2015 3:58 PM,

Dear Ontario Securities Commission,

This correspondence is in regards to OSC's open investigation into the US company I've knowingly and willingly invested in, Creative Edge Nutrition (ticker: FITX). In general, my experience with this stock is currently a significant loss of value due to local and federal government corruption that is best case lock step and worst case hand in hand with business competitors and policy makers against MMPR. I want to layout why I'm still confident in my investment but very nervous about outside actors (government or private) beyond the control of FITX influencing their stated and acted upon business goals.

I invested in February of 2014 after seeing public opinion and legislation shift regarding marijuana as a medicinal plant. Specifically governments allowing this plant to be cultivated, researched, tested, and processed in a pharmaceutical / scientific process and environment. After researching companies entering this new industry, FITX was the best publicly trade company in terms of transparency, business plan, and caliber of company officers. My reservations included the stigma of being a "pink sheet" stock and the higher outstanding shares. However, these concerns could be remedied within a year or two given Health Canada's early stated goals and FITX's business plan. I made a risky investment but it was calculated risk.

I won't go through the events from then to now since I assume and hope your office looks at all events in any investigation, but here is my take away: FITX has followed every requirement put in place by the local and federal governments from the original agreement up through unfair post agreement requirements of Health Canada. FITX has been transparent and true to their legal commitment to local and federal governments. The local and federal governments have provided a moving goal post for acceptance or curiously changed previously stated agendas and positions. Health Canada has provided no transparency or justified reason for actions. Some how the Globe and Mail gets private information regarding FITX. The list goes frustratingly on and on.

In summation, I'm confused why FITX is being investigated for malfeasance or fraud when there is clearly a pattern of this everywhere but FITX. My only hope is that justice will prevail in the long term. However when these things happen in the US, governments like to save face and ask people to "retire" without admitting guilt. Please continue the good work.

Creative Edge Nutrition(FITX) shareholder concerns

My name is _____ I am 22 years of age, I live in Etobicoke Ontario.

Just over a year ago with Health Canada's MMPR program about to officially launch, I decided to research different investment opportunities within this new industry. The most interesting company I came across was Creative Edge Nutrition/CEN Biotech inc. I studied for countless hours on every detail this company is about from its business plan/goals, to its board of directors and CEO, as well as several developments within the company. I Came to realize that this company had positioned itself to be a very large scale producer of medicinal marijuana in Canada's new program when it would receive a license under the MMPR. This company had followed every step of Health Canada's requirements and guidelines and in many cases they exceeded the requirements of the program. In fact Due to the low demand of medical marijuana in this new program, Health Canada requested that Cen Biotech accelerate the buildout of their 14 million dollar production/cultivation facility located in Windsor Ontario in the Town of Lakeshore. Once the structure was erect and the pre-license inspection complete Health Canada promised a "provisional license" to be granted to Cen Biotech Inc. Once the structure was erect, Health Canada inspectors took three months to inspect. Once inspected, the report stated the company was ready and able to meet all of Health Canada's MMPR requirements. As of yet still to this day, Health Canada has not come true to their word and not delivered on their promise to grant Cen biotech a license under the MMPR.

Due to Health Canada's Actions as well as certain Media outlets such as the Globe and Mail and in specific Grant Robertson, thousands of shareholders of Creative Edge Nutrition/CEN Biotech inc have watched out equity investments dwindle. Health Canada has treated Cen Biotech the applicant extremely unfairly, unjustly and undeservingly. Cen Biotech is Capable of providing patients in Canada much needed Quality Medicine that other licences applicants have been incapable of doing (certain recalls of product). Not only is Health Canada interfering with this company and its shareholders freedom of economic rights but it is depriving Canadians of quality medicine nobody else can provide frankly.

This company has never EVER once mislead its shareholders or the general public, they have been very transparent and honest and their intentions have been very clear from the start. It is Grant Robertson and the Globe and Mail as well as many other media outlets (Windsor Star) that have scarred Fitx' reputation along with its CEO by writing numerous articles (over 20) spreading blatant lies and backed up by no facts just biased opinion.

FITX and its shareholders have seen their investments drop significantly due to Health Canada's illegal actions (or lack of) as well as the manipulation from Grant Robertsons Libellous articles.

I would like for it to be known that Fitx and its shareholders will fight to be treated fairly in a free economic society.

I am Quite Frankly Ashamed to be a Canadian Citizen today for my own government is depriving people of QUALITY medicine that is NEED.

To whom it my concern,

First off I am a shareholder of Creative Edge Nutrition which trades as FITX and half been for over a year. During the last year we as a company have invested substantial money in Canada with the goal to become the largest producer of medical marihuana. There has been a real attack on this company through various media outlets. There are known bashers who have publicly said in social media they're there to short the stock and run the PPS down. There have been articles through multiple that twists facts to sound negative to scare shareholders. I could go on and on with examples of stock manipulation through outside sources. I myself have never been concerned with any of the attempts to bash FITX because I believe in the vision. I do believe there is something going on by outside forces to stop this company and that needs to be brought to light. It's not a secret and by now you are already aware of all these deliberate attacks and I would appreciate you investigating these attempts on FITX. I have never felt manipulated or deceived by Creative Nutrition Inc and stand behind the company 100%.

I know this will all be cleared up once looked into.

Thanks for your time,

Globe and Mail articles

To whom it may concern,

First I would like to quickly introduce myself: my name is [redacted] and I reside in NE Ohio with my beautiful 3 year old daughter and fiancé. My hope is that this letter reaches the desk of somebody that cares; somebody that believes in justice; somebody that looks out for the goodwill of all shareholders.

I have been invested in Creative Edge Nutrition (FITX) for well over a year now and I'm well educated on the risks of OTC pink stocks. As a shareholder with more than 500k+; I also am educated on the wrongdoings of Health Canada, the town of Lakeshore, and the corruption and back door dealings that are currently taking place to stop FITX from being a fully licensed company under the current MMPR guidelines. Not only have they adhered to the guidelines of the current MMPR program; they have exceeded them every step of the way only to be delayed by Mayor Bain of Lakeshore and Health Canada questioning the zoning that they were already approved for in the ready to build.

But this is not why I'm writing to you this evening. I'm writing to you because I am looking for a thorough investigation of Grant Robertson, writer for the Canadian "Globe and Mail," who has consistently slandered the company and has spewed fallacies in every article he has ever written. As you will quickly learn, he takes quotes out of context, or in some cases, 2 month old quotes, and spins them as if they are current to manipulate the uninformed investor. This stock manipulation has been going on for some time now and should not be occurring in a major publication such as the Globe and Mail. His articles usually come at a time when FITX is green or closes green as I have all the evidence to provide. I'm asking for a thorough investigation into the Globe and Mail for stock manipulation, slandering, fraud, and misinforming the general public. I'm asking for an immediate resignation of Mr. Robertson while the investigation is ongoing. Thank you in advance for your time and all the great work you do.

Creative Edge nutrition/CEN biotech (FITX)

Dear Sir/Madam,

Good day, I feel compelled to voice my frustration and shock with the way Creative Edge Nutrition (CEN) a publicly traded company FITX has being negatively manipulated and portrayed in the news media, social media and investment media. I have being an investor in this fantastic startup company since the fall of 2013. CEN Biotech, a wholly owned subsidiary of Creative Edge Nutrition has being transparent about their business plan and has put together a well rounded and diverse board of directors to help execute their business plan. Their business plan was not only to apply under the MMPR program with Health Canada (HC) to become one of the licensed producer of quality standard medical marijuana (MMJ) for patients but also to invest in MMJ research and development.

CEN biotech, its CEO Bill Chabaan, all the board members, all the employees and all their investors have all being through hell daily from all the attacks from the people who do not want this startup company to succeed. The CEO Bill Chabaan as well as employees have even had death threat phone recorded messages against them hence the need to try and conceal the identity of certain employees and use of non de plume.

I am not going to beat around the bush and just state my questions and hope you could all provide the necessary answers by investigating the parties involved in this unnecessary conundrum CEN Biotech faces all of a sudden.

1. Why would Major Bain of lakeshore initially invite the company with open hands in a press conference, approve the zoning requirements and provide the building permit for Cen biotech and then subsequently later on, change the zoning requirement of the companies construction site and not want the company to succeed in receiving their MMPR producer license?
2. Why is Grant Robertson of Globe and Mail acting as the judge, the jury and executioner of CEN and CEO Bill Chabaan by writing over 15 negative biased, manipulative and insider information articles on this company since december 2014?
3. Why did Health Canada spokes person Stephane Shank release confidential information about CEN biotech to Grant Robertson of Globe and Mail even before CEN biotech received the letter of intent to reject directly from HC.
4. Why is both investor HUB and Yahoo message boards still allowed to manipulate stock market and not currently under investigation by SEC, OSC and FINRA.
5. Why would health Canada HC rejects CEN biotech's license without any explanation and without re-inspection? Especially after Health Canada gave CEN biotech the ready to build letter, asked CEN biotech to accelerate the build out of their state of the earth facility, HC eventually inspected CEN biotech's facility after months of CEN biotech patiently waiting for HC to show up for inspection, inspection result revealed only 2 minor deficiency that CEN biotech immediately corrected and then suddenly HC rejection of CEN biotech's application.
6. Why is the SEC and OSC not investigating Chris Parry of Seeking Alpha and Matt Finston of Seeking Alpha and Grant Robertson of Globe and mail for insider trading and stock manipulation practices against fitx.
7. How is Grant Robertson is able to get al the insider type information he publishes in his articles about CEN biotech?

There are so many questions to ask but I would like to start with these ones for now.

Sincerely,

To: losangeles@sec.gov, inquiries@osc.gov.on.ca, admin@cenbiotechinc.com, Rona.ambrose@parl.gc.ca

To Whom It May Concern:

I am currently a shareholder with a company called Creative Edge Nutrition. This Company is publicly traded on the OTC markets under the ticker symbol "FITX" I began looking into Companies in the United States and Canada that were becoming involved in the cultivating, preparation and eventually sales of the Medical Marijuana to patients who desperately need it. I was also very interested in Companies that wanted to get involved into the production of CBD oils.

I came across Creative Edge Nutrition. I was impressed with the CEO Bill Chaaban and his track record from past business ventures. So impressed, I began to read what ever I could get my hands on to gain more knowledge of Mr. Chaaban and the direction he wanted to take Creative Edge Nutrition. I read Press Releases involving Creative Edge Nutrition that began in 05/2012. Those PRs continued through and up to 2014. There were at least 30 to 50 articles. I was so impressed with FITX; I began to accumulate shares. At first started out slowly building up a couple hundred thousand shares in the 0.07-cent range.

I continued branching out and reading articles related to FITX on Seeking Alpha by a writer named Desmond Fargo. He spoke very highly of Bill Chaaban and FITX. I was to say the least, very impressed with what I was reading. Desmond Fargo also advised his readers he was holding a long position in FITX. Full disclosure. Another writer on Seeking Alpha by the name of Matt Finston was the exact opposite of Desmond Fargo. Mr. Finston was doing his best to shoot down each and every positive article that came out on FITX, he responded and spun a negative position. Not sure why the 180% reversal of a colleague. Other than you're paid per page read and this was a pretty good marketing plan as Desmond has a good following. At first these articles raised a red flag to me. But, If it were not for me seeing with my own eyes Mayor Bain of Lakeshore, Canada welcoming Creative Edge Nutrition during a video Press Release, I would have probably gone elsewhere.

I read the articles outlining Health Canada asking now, Cen Bio, to build a facility licitly split to grow MMJ. HC stated they would streamline the process and upon completion of the inspection, would issue Cen Bio a license to grow and sale up to 1.3 Million pounds of MMJ for the citizen's of Canada. Cen Bio completed the facility in good time. The facility was inspected. Two minor issues were brought up. They were fixed the following day and then Cen Bio requested an additional inspection. We then sat and waited for months. We had a ready to build permit that was not going to be valid until our inspections were complete.

During this whole process, the residents of Lakeshore began their quest of developing amnesia saying they were never advised of the "awful facility that now laid in their front yards". The process began to drag on and on and on. Mr. Chaaban even went to Lakeshore and personally attempted to negotiate with the residents to no avail. It seemed our pockets were not deep enough even offering more than what the current property values were worth. Mr. Chaaban had to sell some of his personal shares to survive and loan Cen Bio some money to stay afloat. I believe the figure was over 4 Million dollars. Mr. Chaaban complied with the SEC and all necessary documents were filed. This was and still is all legal.

By now, the residents of Lakeshore sent a letter to Health Canada asking them to reconsider issuing the license to Cen Bio based on re-zoning by laws that were changed. But these laws were put in place after Cen Bio made a deal with Lakeshore. We should have been "Grandfathered" in. Enters the Globe and Mail newspaper. One of Canada largest read news sources. A writer by the name of Grant Robinson seems to be on a quest to damage – defame – destroy the name of Cen Bio and Bill Chaaban. Single handily, he has been responsible for countless articles bashing and citing un-reliable sources in articles with information that is just not true. His baseless accounts of actions taken by Cen Bio and Bill Chaaban, have scared the shareholders into selling and eventually costing the shareholders of Cen Bio thousands upon thousands of dollars. As of this date, my investment is down almost 80%. I'm not selling a single share. You're gonna pry the shares from my cold dead hands.

The Globe and Mail also cited a "source" from Health Canada that provided them with confidential information that was not to be released to the public. They published the article anyway, and nothing happened to them as of this date. This itself is a violation and both Health Canada and the Globe and Mail should have to answer for it. Be fined and sanctioned for quite a while.

I could have written a 20 page short story on how Cen Bio and Creative Edge Nutrition have followed each and every rule they were requested to follow. And still to this date, we have been denied our license to grow MMJ because of a reporter, a writer and some bulletin boards with people bashing FITX - Cen Bio and Bill Chaaban. One day, Grant Robinson and Matt Finston's agenda will become public and it will destroy both of their pathetic careers. I want to also say; I'm not a person that is easily led astray. I have remained focused and have never sold one share that I have purchased of FITX. If the articles were true, I would have left with the knowledge that I made the mistake. Not leaving because of someone lied and tricked me to sell my shares.

I'm sorry for the long letter. The story is a wild one. But one that needs to be investigated. The medicine needs to reach the people of Canada and the World. CBD oils need to make it into the hands of the innocent children with Cancer, Tumors, Seizures and other ailments, to many to list. These frivolous accusations need to be investigated quickly, either throw them out or find on behalf of Health Canada and we all move on.

I tend to believe you will see were not hiding anything now or ever before. "Look under our hood – were clean".

Signed,

A concerned - frustrated and fed up shareholder requesting an honest investigation!

Minister Ambrose

I am a shareholder with FITX, a US OTC company. The following people have been publishing on the internet and national Canadian newspapers false and misleading statements about FITX.

Grant Robertson

Matt Finston

Chris Parry

It is my strong view that these individuals deliberately caused the stock price fall and influenced the decision by Health Canada to reject a license application to grow Medical Marijuana.

If your role is to protect investors from stock manipulation then I believe you have a responsibility to protect me from their manipulation.

Thank you,

Subject: Letter from a Cen Biotech shareholder.

To: inquiries@osc.gov.on.ca

Dear OSC representative,

My name is [redacted] I am a long term shareholder of Creative Edge Nutrition (OTC:FITX) and its subsidiary Cen Biotech. When I invested in this company, I did my research, liked what I saw, understood what I was investing in and became a part of this great company through owning shares. I am someone who believes in this company and knows they are as legit as they come so it really disgusts me when I hear and read lies and slander spoken and written about them in the media.

Before I continue, I understand that this is a pink sheet stock and that there are an obscene amount of scams out there that one can buy shares in. I have been an investor for quite some time now and know what risks are involved in any stock let alone pink sheets. With that being said, I have watched this company make announcements, be welcomed by the town of Lakeshore, Ontario to do business in there city, build a state of the art medical marijuana facility expeditiously at the request of Health Canada, and meet every deadline that has been set and sometimes finish before some deadlines. They have done all this while being extremely transparent, more transparent than most of the stocks I have invested in over the years on much higher exchanges. They have also done this in the face of constant bashing, lies and misrepresentations by, in my opinion, people being paid by some entity with deep pockets that wants to stop Cen Biotech before ther even start.

So, once again, I write to you as a long term shareholder of Creative Edge Nutrition and its subsidiary Cen Biotech who has never felt misinformed by this great company whatsoever and all the libel and slander have been expressed by people outside the company who want to see it fail. I also write to as a shareholder who has a paper loss of greater than $50,000 and am still happy with my investment because the truth which I already know will come to light in time. Also please keep in mind during your investigation that there are many other shareholders who feel the same way as I in that we know the truth and that this temporary "loss" we are enduring was not because of any actions by the company but by shady individuals who would love to see us fail.

Thank you for your time and feel free to contact me anytime. I'll be here, speaking truth.

To Whom it May Concern;

and I am an investor in Creative Edge Nutrition FITX). I began investing in January of 2014 after speaking with a consultant at Morgan Stanley Wealth Management. The company was one of many that were making a transition into the Medical Marijuana industry. Because this was a penny stock I began doing extensive due diligence on the company. So much so that I flew from NY to Lakeshore Ontario to meet the CEO along with others involved with the development of the company. I found it interesting how supportive the community and the Mayor of Lakeshore (Tom Bain) were. After speaking with different residents and learning of the recent closure of the Heinz factory their support made perfect sense due to the need for jobs and tax revenue.

Over the next few months there were acquisitions to the BOD's that in my opinion were unbelievably beneficial to the structure of this growing company.

I'm sure you are familiar with the timeline of events and have done your own due diligence of the FACTS surrounding the current situation. As we progressed with our bid for a license it became abundantly clear we began to get the runaround from some of the local politicians and HC. I was then made aware that the Mayor of Lakeshore had changed his tune on the company as well and was denying knowledge of certain facts that he had previously stated about the company. For example he said he wasn't aware of the plan to grow such a large amount of Medical Marijuana and the size of the company. That was a blatant lie. Another example was how Mr. Salmonds (Lakeshore Town Attorney) clearly states for the record during a Town Meeting that the applicant has applied for all permits and has met all zoning criteria, and in another statement claims that there have been many inspections of the property and they are in complete compliance. Why then did Lakeshore go and attempt to change the zoning and pull the rug out from under Cen-Bio. There are many other examples of the intent to prevent Cen-Bio from obtaining their license. It is very apparent that there is some sort of corruption in the local Government of Lakeshore and possibly right up to some officials of Health Canada.

I invested in a company that I felt was making strides towards the the discovery of new medical applications for the use of Medical Marijuana. New therapies towards the treatment of illnesses that affect families and children with epilepsy and other debilitating ailments.. To me it appears that Cen-Bio has been made a pawn in a political chess game. They have been wrongfully depicted in the press through leaks in HC. The Company has been attacked in chat rooms and blogs and by paid individuals who propagate false stories to manipulate stock price. One Grant Robertson of The Globe and Mail has written numerous stories of interpretive lies. I wonder why he never reports on the other companies in the MMJ space that have recalls, mold or where other CEO's are selling shares in their company? No, time after time it is only Cen-Bio that is the center of his rants. I would hate for an outside agency to dig into this and find that there is collusion between the Liberal Party in Canada and HC or HC and the Globe and Mail or all of the above. The facts thus far are indicative of some sort of collusion between parties but who they are are still not clear. .

I am now aware of an ongoing investigation by the OSC into Cen-Bio. Myself being an elected official in the State of New York, it seems apparent that someone in power had a change of heart. Political power appears to have a hand in this and how far up the line it goes is still not clear. I implore you to aid in clearing this up for the masses. You have the means in which to open your own investigation on parties withing HC and find out how we have arrived where we are right now. Question you should be asking are 1) why wasn't the license issued timely? 2) How did Globe and Mail acquire documents from HC prior to the CEO receiving them? How could HC issue a "ready to build" permit and then question zoning?

There are many moving parts in this saga EXCEPT for 1. When I invested in FITX they were looking to become the largest Medical Marijuana facility in Canada and possibly the world. They applied, they followed zoning, they upgraded security, they upgraded their vault and they appeared to follow through on all demands put on them from HC and Lakeshore only to be misled and ignored for months at a time.

As an investor in micro-cap stocks I was well aware of the risks involved with Cen-Bio, I have yet to see any facts that Cen Bio misled me or any other investors and I am more concerned with the conduct of the local

To whom it may concern . My name is _____ have been an investor in a company Creative Edge Nutrition (otc FITX) , since early 2014. I have followed this company and watched both there press releases and the town of Lakeshore Ontario . Up until the end of July 2014 all seemed to move at a realistic pace for a start up in this very new space and industry. There have always been a element of people saying positive things and negative spins on everything going on, which I totally expected .

In August 2014 things seemed to change with a more consistent amount of negative spins on news, and the town of lakeshore took a different stance on the company . I have noticed most negative articles about the company have come from The Globe and Mail, and other news outlets seen to just repeat what they report. As of today the Town counsel is trying to impose zoning changes to the company, and Health Canada has slow tracked the license process . All of these have stalled this company , and with every set back they are being looked at very negatively. In my view the company has done what they can , and assembled a stellar team to take this company to the next level ,but are running up against forces trying to stop this process. Thank You for Your Time

To whom it may concern;

I have been a shareholder of Cen-Bio since February of 2014. I have not sold a single share. I did research on this company and decided that it was a wonderful company to invest in. One of the things that convinced me to invest in FITX was the welcome that was given by the Town of Lakeshore Mayor Bain. I watched the video press release of Mayor Bain welcoming this company. Health Canada also convinced me to invest as they were eager to get Cen-Bio to build and produce medical marijuana for patients who desperately need it. A state of the art facility was built after proper permits, and inspected. I feel that all press releases by Cen-Bio were trustworthy and forthcoming. The company always kept everyone in the loop with the progress. Bill Chaaban never misled anyone and I have full confidence in him in succeeding in developing any company.

Unfortunately there are a group of people who do not want this company to succeed! Many negative articles came out causing the stock to fall drastically and also to be manipulated. Most of this was due to the Globe and Mail and Grant Robertson. There are also other individuals who have spent relentless time and effort to make sure that this company was not granted a license. Why would they want this company to fail? Why would you constantly print negative article after article if this was such a bad company? Let them fail on their own! Why would you sit on different stock boards and blogs, day after day and put negative comments? Someone is paying these people off?

The attacks on Cen-Bio continued with inside information from Health Canada and the Town of Lakeshore.

I believe that all of these dishonest acts have caused a direct manipulation of this companies value and their not receiving a license. Someone is behind all this! Please look at the facts and truths. There has been an illegal collusion by many individuals. These individuals should be brought to justice!

Cen-Bio followed each and every rule that they were requested to follow. No one from Cen-Bio ever mis-led anyone! I hope a thorough investigation is performed. I hope that justice will be served.

Thank you for your time and concern.

To Whom It May Concern:

am an investor in Cen Biotech (FITX).

In 2013 I began researching this company and I have been investing in this stock since January 2014. I decided to invest in this company because they appeared to be a sound company – they had a sports supplement company (Creative Edge Nutrition) and were going thru the proper channels and processes for a medical marijuana subsidiary (Cen Biotech). They have a very strong board of directors and CEO and I felt this company could do some great things in the medical marijuana arena.

I am disappointed in the Lakeshore zoning changes and the Health Canada rejection of license. I've also watched while the Globe and Mail writer Grant Robinson, bloggers Matt Finston and Chris Parry have constantly attacked the company, along with the personal attacks on the CEO, Mr. Chabaan. This media barrage has not only created manipulation of the stock but also delays in research and development of medical cannabis.

The manipulation of the stock has hurt my investments, but the delays in research and development of their medical marijuana subsidiary has hurt the health of many others who can benefit from medical marijuana.

I have never been misled by Cen Biotech and believe very strongly in this company. This company has been fighting a constant uphill battle with the media and questionable practices by the Town of Lakeshore and Health Canada. By writing this letter, I ask you to investigate these actions.

To Whom It May Concern:

have been a shareholder of Cen Biotech, ticker FITX for over a year. I researched Cen Biotech thoroughly and feel very comfortable with my investment. The company received their ready to build letter, was welcomed by Mayor Tom Bain of Lakeshore and built a 12.5 million dollar state of the art facility to produce Medical Marijuana for Canadian patients who are in need. Everything seemed to be on track and falling into place. I have never felt misled by the company. The CEO, Bill Chaaban assembled a first class Board of Directors and they all have impressed me with their honesty and integrity. I am proud to be a shareholder!

In the midst of all the positive company happenings, false negative statements were being spewed all over social media and I started to see my investment fall. Individuals such as Matt Finston, Chris Perry, and Alan Brockstein began directly attacking Cen Biotech by posting misleading, inaccurate information in regards to the company and its CEO on lie hub and various other social media outlets. Also, The Globe and Mail's Grant Robertson continuously published insufficient, one-sided articles bashing the company. I am very concerned that this manipulation has been able to continue for over a year. There should be zero tolerance for this type of behavior that is motivated by greed! The company's CEO, Bill Chaaban is well-respected by the shareholders and is driven to make this company successful for investors. Unfortunately, these people think our investment is a big game for their gain. They sit on their computers and make up stories while I go to work every day, to a job that is very hard and physical. See, these guys don't care about the loss they have caused me as a shareholder due to their relentless manipulation. I have attached several examples of what goes on social media for your review.

Thank you,

To all Concerned:

I am one of thousands of Shareholders all over the world invested in FITX /Cenbiotech. I am one that invested in this company because of the fact it was to be run as a real Pharmaceutical company. From the beginning CenBiotech was the only company in The Canadian space that was bringing Acclaimed doctors/scientists that were skilled at testing new medicines, (See our Board of Directors) growing different strains for different problems and grow patents to further enhance growing and the time it would take to grow mature plants and the processes of cloning plants to regulate exact strength and efficacies for certain ailments I do not understand all the scrutiny. This company is the only one that built a state of the art sterile facility under the watchful eye of Health Canada and the Town of Lakeshore. I am sure you have seen all the timelines and ready to build letters etc so I would like to express a different concern.

This company has been under relentless attack for nearly a year now. They call the company a pump and dump and even personally attack impassioned shareholders for defending themselves. The voice of Cenbiotech has been drowned by a well-orchestrated attack by about 10 -20 people with hundreds of fake aliases verses the thousands of shareholders who have no problem with the company. If I had a dollar for every time a shareholder was called a pumper. A pump and dump is this. You buy stock low and sell high after pumping it. Yet most shareholders are longs. Most have never even sold 1 a single share. If we are pumpers we really stink at it. As evidenced by our stock plummeting over the last year. I think it is time for a single credible organization or government agency to look at what has really happened hear and publicly support and clear this company. The people negatively orchestrating our demise has been very successful and working full time to do this. I am not sure of the reasons but it is clearly a small group working together to destroy us with misinformation and half-truths. Of every allegation mentioned nothing has ever been proven and the company keeps working for the benefit of its shareholders. I urge you and your organization to put the watchful eye on the large voice that keeps calling this company everything they could think of. Some examples of this are the false allegations that the company was touting it knew Ms. Ambrose and we were to get special favors for that. I ask to see one shred of proof that happened yet we paid a steep price for that. That is one example of thousands that shows it doesn't have to be true. You just have to say it enough times and spread it around correctly and it becomes true. I also ask you to look at The Globe and Mail articles that were so cleverly written with tons of attacks against the company but with no source information to validate them. They were written again and again all about us and it is interesting to note a CEO of Tweed Inc sold huge amounts of shares and then abruptly was replaced and not articles were written about that. Yet when the CEO of CenBiotech files the correct paperwork and sells a small part of his share upfront, openly and more important legally it has been misrepresented thousands of times that he is dumping share it is insinuating he is doing something illegal when actually every single CEO of every publicly traded company sells share from time to time for many varieties of reasons.

I ask you to please investigate why Grant at the Globe and mail continues to write only about Cenbiotech over and over again, every single time the stock moves up even tenths of a penny when other companies have had recalls, mold and iron in the product and product seizures entering the country etc. Surely these are more important than how a CEO legally signs his name. One Company Aphria just came out in a press release and said they would be working together with Health Canada to build a direction for this field. Yet when it is alleged, not actually said we are partners of Health Canada we have been lambasted for an entire year that we are lying for stock purposes that we are Health

Canadas partner. IT is laughable. I urge the media, the government and The Town of Lakeshore to give this company so many of us invested in a real chance to do what it set out to do. It is terribly unfair that so few people that have 24 hours a day and computer and writing skills and a few connections with major newspapers can control public opinion and government agencies like puppets and they are laughing at those agencies and organizations behind closed doors and also harassing innocent people that just made a simple investment in a company they whole heartedly Believe in. Some of us have made substantial investments and would so truly appreciate that a fair playing field be allowed to be developed. Let's not let this continue.

Sincerely,

Hello,

and I am Cen Biotech investor. I understand that your office is currently investigating Cen Biotech (FITX) and I would like share with you my experience, and opinion, as an investor in this company.

I've been investing in Cen Biotech since February 2014. I discovered the company while searching for MMJ investment opportunities. I invested in Cen Biotech because of; a solid business plan, a distinct leadership team, brick and mortar progress toward their goals and, most important, having the "ready to build" letter from Health Canada to move forward with their plan.

I was never misled by Cen Biotech. I was only misled by Health Canada and the Town of Lakeshore.

- Health Canada for rejecting Cen's license after earlier issuing the "ready to build" letter and conducting a successful pre license inspection of the Lakeshore facility.
- The Town of Lakeshore for changing zoning regulations AFTER Cen Biotech was granted permits (from Lakeshore) to build this a facility. Note the project was properly zoned for this operation when the permits were issued.

Along with the above concerns CEN-Biotech was, and still is, the focus of a massive media attack. Grant Robertson of the Globe and Mail has targeted CEN-Biotech with a relentless assault of articles. Timing of these articles always happens after an upward trend in Cen-Biotech's PPS.

Along with Grant Robinson, Matt Finston and Chris Parry are two bloggers and writers who have also been relentlessly attacking Cen Biotech. Grant Robertson has quoted and discussed Matt Finston several times in his articles. Matt Finston has also talked about shorting FITX on Twitter (attached screenshot). Again, after each article (from all 3 writers) the PPS was driven down for no other purpose (in my opinion) than manipulation of this stock.

Cen Biotech is a solid company who has been fighting an uphill battle for over a year against lying media attacks and the reversal of commitment from both the Town of Lakeshore and Heath Canada. I ask you to look at all of the circumstances leading to the current situation including investigating issues outlined above.

Thank you for your time, authorized vendor. The vendor will be subject to strict security conditions and requirements.

Any proponent will have to be licensed by Health Canada (a rigorous process). proposed location will have to meet local zoning and building by-laws.

It is the government's intention to fully implement this new system by March 31, 2013.

Lakeshore has been notified by CEN-BioTech Inc that it has applied to health Canada for a licence in Lakeshore (as required by the new regulations).

COMMENTS:

The proposed location is at Manning and North Rear Road (south of the detachment at Manning and 401). It has the correct zoning.

The site is zoned 'Agricultural Use- Value Added' that provides for an accessory processing and refining agricultural product to a final retail product. The final product shall primarily consist of inputs produced on the farm.

The proponent has applied to construct a 58,000 s.f. steel barn to grow and process plants. There is also a fencing application to secure the facility. In a meeting with proponents, they explained that there would be a number of sophisticated security measures in addition to air filtration to remove vapors and odors.

The application is currently in process.

To whom it may concern,

I am long-term investor in Creative Edge Nutrition and its subsidiary Cen Biotech (FITX), and in full support of the company. Over the last several months there has been a orchestrated attempt to bring down this company.

I come from a engineering and scientific background and base my opinions on facts leaving witch hunting and rumor mongering to the less well informed. It has amazed me to see these last several months how Health Canada and other Canadian Government organizations have been listening to acting on innuendoes and unsubstantiated rumors. Rumors perpetrated by people with a clear agenda to harm Cen Biotech (FITX).

All I ask is that you do a thorough investigation into the facts and clear the air so the company can go about it's business.

Thank you,

Subject: Letter from a FITX shareholder

I am forwarding you the letter I have sent to the authorities:

To whom it may concern:

I am a shareholder of FITX and a medical marijuana patient. I've been a shareholder for over a year having invested over $50,000. I implore you and your authority to conduct an objective investigation in to what I have observed over the year as illegal manipulation of, and interference with, a publicly traded security.

The principals comprising FITX, including its CEO Bill Chaaban, have always acted in good faith, are transparent, diligent, honest, and have demonstrated a high level of fiduciary responsibility to us the shareholders, potential patients of the medicine they intend to produce, and the third parties FITX relies upon for the implementation of its intended business operation, namely Lakeshore and Health Canada. Based on these impressive qualities and impressive actions of FITX I have witnessed over the past year, I was and continue to be comfortable having invested in FITX. However what I am not comfortable with is the blatant illegal manipulation that has been allowed to go unchecked for the past year. Perhaps my letter along with the many others I know you are receiving will finally result in the scrutiny and resulting actions this situation demands!!!!

You have received letters that have outlined the chain of events in this unfolding situation and examples of the antics engaged in by those hell-bent on the destruction of FITX. As that information has been provided among the letters you have received, I won't be redundant and repeat what you have been provided, but I want to state the outlines of events and manipulation provided are very accurate and are descriptions that I agree with 100%. Especially the details pertaining to, but not limited to, actions by Grant Robertson, Matt Finston, Chris Parry among others. Then there are the anonymous parties whose identity we don't know that have exploited the ability to freely disseminate information on the internet. That is what I wish to address.

As I stated, I have the full confidence in FITX and its principals and as time went on over the last year my confidence was continuously validated by the diligent good-faith efforts by FITX and its principals. Also during the last year I witnessed on authored "blogs", message boards such as Yahoo, Investors Hub and Investors Hangout , a concerted, well organized, relentless and blatant dissemination of lies and misinformation about FITX by not only Matt Finston, Chris Parry and Grant Robertson (among others) there are also the anonymous individuals, with the malicious intent to manipulate the stock and the destruction of FITX. As a shareholder, having had conducted my due diligence, I had no reason whatsoever to give any credence to the lies and misinformation about FITX on the internet. The lies and misinformation were/are not consistent with the facts; anyone else that had conducted their due diligence would have no reason to give any credence to the wild assertions and accusations being hurled about 24/7.

What became very suspicious is that these wild assertions and accusations actually came to fruition despite the fact these accusations and assertions began in earnest in Spring 2014 well in advance of these assertions actually coming true. This is very telling as there was no reason at the time to conclude that any of this could ultimately come true as FITX was/is compliant in every aspect pertaining to the Lakeshore Manning Road facility and its MMPR license application with Health Canada. Clearly these authors had inside knowledge well in advance of the actual occurrence of events. The assertions consisted primarily of:

"Lakeshore will reject the FITX building on Manning Road"

"Health Canada will reject the FITX license application"

As internet message board content is archived in permanence, you have the ability to retrieve this content so you can get to the bottom of this criminal activity that I and many others have been victimized by.

In the interest of justice, I implore you and the authority you have been charged with to thoroughly investigate this criminal manipulation of a publicly traded security.

Very truly yours,

Dear Sir/Madam,

Good day, I feel compelled to voice my frustration and shock with the way CEN Biotech has been negatively manipulated and portrayed in the news media. I believe that any honest assessment of the facts would conclude that there has been a concerted effort by a few bloggers/bashers and at least one "journalist" employed by the Globe & Mail to stop Cen Biotech from growing. "Follow the money" and you'd find who is behind the effort to stop the company from operating. Also consider that some people do not want marijuana to be used by anyone so they have their own personal agenda. I fully trust our CEO and Board Of Directors. Please don't be misled by the false things being said and grant us a license as we have so much of our lives invested in this great company.

To: "Admin@cenbiotechinc.com" <Admin@cenbiotechinc.com>

To whom it may concern,

I would like to introduce myself and tell my story of being a shareholder of what I believe to be an outstanding company named Cen Biotech Inc. which is a subsidiary of Creative Edge Nutrition, stock symbol FITX.

, in January of 2014 I made my initial investment into FITX. I do not make a habit of investing in companies other than blue chips which trade on the Nasdaq or NYSE exchanges. My personal research of a new up and coming medical marijuana sector lead me to many companies, all of which trade on the over the counter (OTC) markets. Investments here are knowingly high risk, high reward investments. I will highlight the events which lead me to my initial investment, as well as many of my additional purchases of FITX shares.

Starting in 2012 my research began on a new up and coming industry (marijuana) I didn't initially think too much about, assuming "pot heads" want to grow their own marijuana. The more research I did the more I realized not only is this a medicine people need for certain ailments, this is an industry that already exists on the black market which has little to no research on what people are ingesting or knowledge of where this medicine is grown or processed. While looking into company after company month after month to find one I believed could be a company that held the values of quality assurance, innovation, drive to succeed, honesty, transparency, with vision to lead a new sector into the future, I found Creative edge nutrition. (FITX)

By this point in time I have read warnings from the SEC & FINRA about shell companies jumping into a new medical marijuana market to make a quick buck. I knew FITX had to prove to me without a doubt I can trust my money in their hands. So I waited patiently while I continued my research of the company as well as its executives & business practices. I could not find a negative fact against this company or its executives.

On November 12, 2013 the town of Lakeshore held a council meeting which Cen Biotech Inc. made its initial plans public to apply to, and obtain a license to grow medical marijuana under Health Canada's new MMPR program. Here is a link to those minutes.

http://media.marketwire.com/attachments/201410/281090\_FITX.Lakeshore.Council.Meeting.11.12.13.02.jpg

Clearly stated during a city council meeting Cen Biotech Inc. has correct zoning to move forward with its pursuit to become a licensed producer of medical marijuana under the MMPR program.

This town meeting intrigued me further, as it solidified my early belief in this company. Unfortunately, I would not buy any shares just yet.

Early January 2014 a press conference was held to welcome Cen Biotech Inc. to the city of Lakeshore. The link is provided below.

<https://vimeo.com/83685127>

Based on these facts the next day I made a sizable initial investment into FITX. At this point the company has obtained a ready to build letter from Health Canada, approved zoning by the city of Lakeshore, as well as being welcomed publicly to build out a facility in Lakeshore.

This company has done everything by the book, following all laws and regulations set forth by multiple gov. agencies. The outside manipulation this company has endured for over a year is unjust, unlawful, and plain and I'm a proud shareholder of Creative Edge Nutrition (FITX). The CenBiotech the wholly owned subsidiary of Creative Edge Nutrition has applied to become a licensed producer under the MMPR in Canada. Their main purpose is to provide patients with quality medicines and specialty pharmaceuticals.

Hello,

It is this purpose that I completely support but I write to you today because my investment is under attack by nefarious entities and individuals. These individuals and entities have had it out against CenBiotech and write and perused public opinion in a short and distort fashion. They constantly publish libel articles stating completely false accusations and flat out lies.

Take for example an article done by MMJ.Today which highlighted the manner in which these individuals published their articles to manipulate the stock price. What is being demonstrated here is that when the company produces a pr these individuals then released a flurry of negative false hoods and articles.

These individuals have written over 60 articles spreading fear and libel in every single article they produced. Matt Finston, Chris Perry, Grant Robertson of the Globe and Mail. Here is a list of articles that were released by the individuals in a coordinated effort to bring down the stock. These individuals have openly admitted to wanting to bring down the stock.

Chris Parry, Stockhouse

( back on April 29, 2014, he still liked FITX, but after that his opinions changed to the negative. In All of these articles there is a statement that can be viewed as negative about FITX unless indicated otherwise.)

As a dedicated shareholder and in the interest of protecting my investment from these people I have written to you as a last ditch effort to be heard. The CEO Bill Chaaban is a good and honest man and has never lead shareholders astray. He has been open and transparent to his fellow shareholders. It is in this spirit that we reach out to you to provide the actual truth of the events that have transpired against our great company!

If you need more information please feel free to reach out to me.

Hello,

and I am from Upstate NY. I am a retail investor in Creative Edge Nutrition which is currently traded on the OTC Markets in the United States under Symbol FITX. I invested in this company which has a Canadian subsidiary (Cen Biotech Inc) in January 2014 after doing a lot of research which included watching the press conference welcoming Cen Biotech to Lakeshore by the Mayor and the Windsor Essex Business Development Staff. After watching this press conference and seeing the excitement of all parties I continued to invest more money in the company. I invested since I felt the company had a clear vision and also because I felt that this company would help the Lakeshore job market as I had seen that the area was hard hit with companies leaving the area.

As I continued to follow the company the CEO, Bill Chaaban then started adding some of the most qualified diverse members to the Board of Directors with the vision to become the largest medical marijuana in Canada servicing the patients who needed this product to fight medical conditions. After the press conference the company began building during the hardest part of winter with a timetable that I thought was impossible to meet. Obviously this company used employees from all facets of construction from the Lakeshore area and also bought materials from the area to meet this timeframe which I now found out was a rush request of Health Canada. The building was ready around Mid April and the CEO requested a inspection around the end of April. The CEO was very stern about keeping investors up to speed on what was going on with this project as well as other projects that the company was working on.

I patiently waited for the next phase of this project which was to have the building inspected to meet all of Health Canada's strict guidelines under the MMPR. This was only allowed if the company had a ready to build letter which included meeting all zoning requirements. I then started watching the town meetings online from Lakeshore via the internet and saw some very unprofessional conduct by the mayor and council members. Right about this time I began to see more and more conduct by not only Lakeshore council but also from numerous media outlets(including the Globe & Mail), message boards and specific seeking alpha authors. The building was finally inspected on July 31st which is 3 months after the request was put in. I again patiently waited for news that this very well organized company that build a state of the art building would be licensed as they followed all MMPR guidelines. Time and time goes by without a word from Health Canada so like all investors I became anxious.

While this process is going on I continue to follow developments in Lakeshore as for some reason they are now meeting on zoning for medical marijuana & hemp growing which they say is for future companies. Then in late October, early November the council decides to change the zoning to industrial which makes no sense as Health Canada was requiring it to be zoned agricultural which their 2 locations are. During these meetings I saw members of this government agency make comments about the stock tanking when they thought the microphone was off. Now the media outlets & paid bashers are really ramping up their assault on the company as well as the CEO and other Board members .

More time goes by and now we are into 2015 and still no word on the license. Then I find out via the Globe and Mail article that Health Canada intends to reject the license. This come to find out is before the company is notified. According to the MMPR guidelines all information is confidential. This is then followed by a formal denial which again I learn from a media outlet.

I could go on an on about the manipulation and corruption but I guarantee you have received hundreds if not thousands of emails already. In closing I am well aware that investing in stocks is risky especially OTC stocks but I do not wish to lose my well earned money due to corruption and stock manipulation from outside this company. I have not in any way felt that this has anything to do with any Creative Edge Nutrition or Cenbiotech staff especially the CEO who has and always will have the shareholders best interest in mind. My hope is that investigations are done on corruption and stock manipulators outside the company who have damaged this company with the intent to destroy it and loyal shareholders

Sincerely

To Whom It Concern:

I am a shareholder in (FITX) Creative Edge Nutrition. I worked for about 40 years mostly in skilled trades. I have some physical problems that keeps me from working. I searched hard to find a great company with solid management in the Medical Marijuana field. January 8, 2014 is when I first purchased shares (studied the company) and added to my share total over time. I believe FITX (Cen BioTech Inc) to be my best bet and the best bet for my fellow shareholders.

The town of Lakeshore, Canada where Cen BioTech Inc. (currently owned by FITX) build a Facility to Grow Marijuana for medical purposes, (as I understand it and newspapers reported it) encouraged Cen BioTech Inc to build in their town. The Company followed all rules, got all proper permit. In town meeting it was stated by town council that Cen BioTech Inc. had all permits. After the money was spent and building completed, the town of Lakeshore changed direction and denied knowing the purposes of the buildings.

There are videos of meeting and newspaper articles that prove that the Mayor and town were very well informed about purpose of building.

About 6 months ago several authors started to attack the company in blogs, newspapers using ½ truths and twisting facts. One paper has a disclaimer that in short states that they are not responsible for anything said in there paper. This can not be true! These authors have an agenda and its not to get to the truth. I don't know if it is an organized effort or not. The result of this unending Canadian Media attack dropped the price per share.

The political fight within the Canadian government (local through Federal) I don't understand. It may be that FITX

To Whom This May Concern,

My name is _____ and I am an investor in Creative Edge Nutrition, (OTC: FITX) and its subsidiary Cen Biotech. This company being kept where it is instead of breaking out is like Armstrong winning The Tour de France 7 times...Something is not right! It is truly frustrating what is going on in this situation.

The history of how Cen Biotech was invited to build in Lakeshore, spent a ton of money to expedite the build out with things quickly going south, (due to greed from a couple of malcontents living in Lakeshore) makes for dramatic reading but a truly shameful reality.

The needs of the many certainly outweigh the needs of the few and I ask that you would consider the benefit this company will be to those who need quality of health in Canada. PLEASE look at how they have been treated in the public square by those who are not building but tearing down.

Those who can Do. Those who can't complain...

Let Cen Biotech "Do" it and let EVERYONE benefit instead of a few complainers who serve themselves at the expense of others.

Thanks for your time...

To Whom It May Concern

My name is [redacted] I invested in CenBio over a year ago. I'm a novice trader/investor . I did plenty of research before joining CenBio. Bill Chaaban has a great vision for the entire sector. I have believed that Medical marijuana would someday be a valuable choice of medical treatment for many patients. Mr. chaaban's vision of making it accessible to the many in need and especially to those patients that could not afford it, is a vision I was very much attracted to. Being a novice investor I found that by investing in CenBio I would also be investing in a great future to come for many. What I was not ready for , was the many attacks set into play, by competitor investors and companies. Attacks that were unfair and directly intended to destroy CenBio and investors. I've always felt satisfied and comfortable with Bill Chaaban's leadership . I do believe that the market can make or destroy a company by the shear value set on speculation of such company. In early 2014 CenBio was brought to my attention by fellow investors and is another reason I came in. These fellow investors, I consider , to be on top of their trade. But shortly after, they turned on this company to join and parade other competitors. Evidence that this market along with its investor boards are doing a great disservice to many investors and companies, like CenBio who can make a difference in the lives of medical marijuana patients.

Please try to see beyond the hype of CenBio's competitors, professional traders, who trade and spin these stocks to favor their goals and capital Gains.

With all the negative attacks on CenBio and HC rejection I still remain an investor of CenBio.

I continue to believe in the vision and understand that this market has forces that we can't control. But I hope that you will filter through all the false and misleading statements planted against CenBio.

Thank You

To whom it may concern,

My name is . It is with great discontent and dismay that I write you. I am a long term investor in the company named Creative Edge Nutrition, stock symbol FITX. This company led by Bill Chaaban set out on the mission in latter 2013 to become the largest grow facility of medical marihuana under MMPR regulations with the highest standards in Security, Best business practices, and committment to Quality in the world, the product making Canada the leader and world example of how to nurture and developpe this industry into propagation of providing the highest quality medicine to their citizens as well as a leader in all the other uses that MMJ/Hemp can provide once reseached. It is of my opinion and I have witnessed over the past year, Dr. Chaaban (CEO) as well as my board of directors work tirelessly and with disregard to oneselves to achieve that mission.

In the latter part of 2014 FITX announced it was planning to spin off it's MMPR regulated part of the company into a new Canadian company, CEN Biotech Inc., Dr. Chaaban CEO(CEN) recruited a board of directors with the emphasis of having the utmost of integrity! Doctors, Lawyers, former SEC Executives, along with security agents of the highest caliber. We built our facility on grounds with proper zoning and permits as well as a ready to build letter from Health Canada.

Recently Health Canada refused to issue the MMPR license and posted it all over their website yet gives no reason. No other company has been treated that way that I know of. Health Canada has also leaked confidential company information which is protected under law to a tabloid publication called the Globe and Mail. Globe and Mail specifically, Grant Robertson, is notorious for smearing my companys and CEO's name to the extent of trying to manipulate stock prices in my opinion. Over the past year I have witnessed Grant Robertson as well as Mathew Finstin, Chis Parry, Alan Brockenstein, Peter Canalis, plus a multiple of others utilizing their real persona as well as aliases, across multiple forums and platforms, to attack, demean racially, harass, and threaten, Mr. Chaaban and fellow investors. Now they are also targeting the new CEO of FITX that replaced Bill during the spin off preceedings with racist and degrading comments on his personal Facebook page.

Over the course of the last year, I have witnessed Dr. Bill Chaaban and the BOD's of this company go over and beyond what should legally be required to achieve the company's vision and mission. I am writing today to make my voice heard in response to Health Canada's actions. That I, along with the majority of shareholders plan on standing by our CEO and our BOD's sides. We will not let wrong prevail!

To whom it may concern:

I'm a current long shareholder of stock symbol (FITX) of the "pink sheet OTC markets", and have been for the past 10 months. From what I have learned, the "FITX" board members, are very knowledgeable within their professions, in my opinion, is another excuse for why Cen Biotech should be given a chance at competing in this venture.

I am appalled and disgusted at all of the negativity surrounding such a positive to-be potential Empire. I'am more so saddened by Globe and Mail's "Grant Robertson" and his criminal behavior involving stock manipulation and etc. Every time share price reaches a certain peak, Robertson largely instigates by creating misleading articles suggesting Creative Edge Nutrition failed and gave up entirely. Obviously this is non-sensicle just alone viewing the amount of daily, weekly monthly volume trends for stock symbol (FITX).

(FITX) Cen Biotech/ Creative Edge Nutrition, I know and truly feel, if given the opportunity, would/will astoundingly make a difference in the world for many individuals short comings, the Canadian economy, also encourage Canadian/ United States of American trades relations to become infinitely stronger.

I personally do not know Mr Chabaan nor any BOD's, but more so noticing Mr. Chabaan; I can see he is very compationate, very confident, very trust worthy, honest, driven, dedicated, team player, extremely competitive( he's a lawyer also), down to earth cool individual.

Please give him and Board of Directors an opportunity to compete in this industry and in these difficult times. I feel and he feels, as mentioned in the "Cenbiotech website" link here: (<http://www.cenbiotechinc.com/PlatformApps/CEN/c1/index.html>), that everything he worked for in his life till now brought him to this particular stage in his life. This is his calling.

Mr. Chabaan I feel deserves a chance as many other Canadians, as he is also a fellow Canadian citizen with a dual citizenship in the US and I'm assuming Ukraine.

He and his Board of directors with plenty years of experience and are the kind of people you want to work with. He and his team are the people for the people. Bill is the man for this job.

Sincerely,

A current (FITX) Canadian share holder.

To Whom this May Concern,

and I am a loyal shareholder and have been following Creative Edge Nutrition Inc. for over a year now.

I believe in this company and its administration. I do not feel that they have lied to us shareholders.

What I do know is that the media and other sources are the ones that have manipulated this stock not the company Creative Edge Nutrition.

Whatever happened to Free Enterprise? Give this company a chance and see where it can go by helping patients, research that may help your love one someday, the economy and the shareholders.

I hope you make the right decision.

My letter to the OSC, Minister Ambrose, and Media

To: "admin@cenbiotechinc.com" <admin@cenbiotechinc.com>

Here are the two letters I am writing to OSC, Minister Ambrose, Globe and Mail and other media outlets.

To Whom This May Concern

I am writing to you in regards to a company that I have been invested in for over a year. I would like to inform you of some malicious activity going on with Health Canada, Town of Lakeshore and the Globe and Mail.

I invested in Cen Biotech because they are at the forefront of an industry which I believe can and will help many ailing people. There are other companies who are in this industry as well but none compare to the drive and integrity of Cen Biotech.

Over the past year, Cen Biotech has abided by all laws and rules of business. They are in compliance to all requirements as set out by Health Canada, and after the inspection of the facility on 20 Rear Rd North in Lakeshore, on July 31, 2014, Cen Biotech was in compliance and was to be issued a license after two minor deficiencies were corrected.

What has happened since that inspection and today? Why has Cen Biotech not been issued a license?

Only a few know, but what I do know is that there has been an orchestrated attack on the company for unknown reasons.

Firstly, why has the Town of Lakeshore turned on the company? They have been seen in pictures, on video and in newspapers, welcoming Cen Biotech to Lakeshore, expressing their eagerness to work together. They were present at the town hall meetings put on by Cen Biotech. If nothing else, the approval of permits for building, fencing, etc. are an indicator that the council members and residents of Lakeshore were not only aware of Cen Biotech building a new company, but of the company's intention to grow medical marijuana.

Cen Biotech has tried numerous times to appease the people of Lakeshore on multiple occasions. They had the exterior fencing changed twice to appeal to neighboring residents, they held information sessions to help residents understand exactly what the company's vision was and how it would run, so as to dispel any frustrations in regards to daily life. Cen Biotech wanted to ensure residents understood, there would be very little change in traffic, noise, and absolutely no smell to be concerned about.

Residents continued to push Lakeshore's Town Council to the point of amending current zoning by-laws, which is illegal. According to non-conforming use, an entity already in place and in process of opening cannot have zoning changes. The Town of Lakeshore allowed the company to build on agriculturally zoned land, and once complete, months and months later, change the zoning of the land so the company can no longer use the business for its intended purpose.

Secondly, why has Health Canada turned its back on Cen Biotech. After requesting an expedited build out and stating license will be issued in a few weeks after inspection and deficiencies completed, why has it not stood by its word? I have included copies of the timeframe of events, from the documents submitted to the Federal Court of Appeal for judicial review. As you can see, according to the events, Cen Biotech, was in the right to believe they would be granted a license. All of Cen Biotech's press releases dealing with license news was not a ploy to increase share price, but a true belief they would get the license as all correspondence from Health Canada indicated this.

Lastly, how was Grant Robertson of the Globe and Mail privy to sensitive information concerning the company? How was Grant Robertson able to quote staff at Health Canada about Cen Biotech and its license application when doing so is an infringement on privacy laws. Health Canada has been under scrutiny for contravening privacy laws to a tune of at least 40,000 cases from the MMAR program, as brought out by the Allard v Canada case. This is clearly something they have no respect for. How are we as Canadians suppose to respect our laws if our Government agencies can not take it upon themselves to respect the laws. They are not above the law.

Grant Robertson does not have any illegal activity to discuss in his articles, but spins them to sound like horrific, illegal actions have been taken by Cen Biotech. If Grant Robertson had information that truly was illegal, truly was against Health Canada's rules, then why has he not disclosed them. Why has he concentrated all of his 11+ articles on regurgitating the same information over again, in different ways?

I am writing to you today as a concerned investor and a concerned Canadian. It is my hope that you will aid in determining what is really behind all these manipulations, lies and illegal processes.

My Letter to Minister Ambrose

I am writing to you today as a concerned Canadian citizen and investor. It has come to my attention that the OSC is doing an investigation and I am forwarding to them all relevant public information that is available to me. I would like to take this opportunity to inform you of what a great company Cen Biotech is. There have been numerous articles written by Grant Robertson of the Globe and Mail, with numerous other news outlets following Globe and Mail's lead. I have read every single article in all news outlets and have yet to find one thing that constitutes illegal or wrong doing on the part of Cen Biotech or its Board of Directors. Grant Robertson has taken the same information and regurgitated in every article, trying to pass it off as new, relevant, illegal acts. It is quite obvious the Grant has received sensitive, private information about Cen Biotech, which he has used in his articles. I was under the impression that information in an applicant's file was private and sensitive information. How is it then that Grant Robertson was in possession of information regarding Cen Biotech's license rejection a day before anyone else?

Cen Biotech has abided by all rules, laws and regulations in an effort to be the largest medical marijuana company in Canada. They have been met with manipulation, hostility and out right illegal actions. I have never been mislead or made to feel like the company was a scam or trying to take advantage of its investors, as Grant Robertson would have his readers believe.

Cen Biotech has also been met with changing acts and emotions from the Town of Lakeshore. They were welcomed by the Town, as evidenced by videos of Mayor Tom Bain, MPP Sandra Pupatello, and members of Town of Lakeshore counsel. Cen Biotech was issued all relevant permits to build its facility, and months after the facility was completed, the town citizens and town counsel began to orchestrate ways to get rid of the company. The Town of Lakeshore in November 2014 changed the zoning upon which the facility was built from agricultural to industrial in hopes of stopping the company. Which is a blatant violation of Non-Conforming Use. The Town of Lakeshore has even go so far as to send a letter to Health Canada asking for a stop to issuance of its licence.

I am very concerned that in such a democratic, well developed country, we are seeing such blatant displays of law breaking and manipulation. Why is a company that has poured millions of dollars into becoming a state of the art facility to help ailing patients been met with hostility, lies, law breaking and manipulation. Why has Health Canada not issued a license, after claiming it would once deficiencies of the July 31, 2014 facility inspection, were completed. Is it because the Town of Lakeshore asked Health Canada to stop licensure, is it because the Town of Lakeshore changed zoning for the company? Is it because Grant Robertson has written article after article not only spreading lies about Cen Biotech, but calling Health Canada incompetent? Are these the reasons why the company has not been issued a license? Because if so, how can Health Canada just simply not fulfil its role in the license process. The company has not broken any rules as laid out by Health Canada, nor has it broken any laws. It has done everything asked of them by Health Canada, and now is having to fight to get its license.

I am hoping that there can be some agreement reached between Health Canada and Cen Biotech.

Thank you for taking the time to read my concerns.

Sincerely,

Dear Cen Biotech

Hoping our voices will be heard, hoping for a resolution and standing firm behind you!!

Thank you!

Dear OSC representative,

I am writing as a shareholder of the Ontario-based CEN Biotech (a subsidiary of Creative Edge Nutrition). I was surprised to learn the OSC is investigating CEN Biotech for wrongdoings, specifically for misleading shareholders. As a shareholder who first invested over a year ago, I have at NO TIME felt misled by this company's leadership.

As a licensed medical professional in the US (a physiotherapist), I have been enviously watching Canada's evolution of medical marijuana regulations, a difficult task for any government entity in the face of a cultural shift. I invested as a way of promoting an industry whose purpose is to provide safe, effective, and affordable medication to patients in a regulated manner. I have observed CEN Biotech's outstanding integrity in adapting their business to suit the needs of the patient, Health Canada regulations, and shareholders. I have noted every communication & press release made by company reps, have analyzed the text & context of their communications (including industry events and online presence), and I believe all actions by the company have been made with full integrity.

I have examined media pieces which question the company's conduct. I have found these reports to be misleading and not reflective of the company's actions or intentions. The media has access to the same public information as I, and I am concerned that their inflammatory mis-characterizations of CEN have been presented in a slanderous manner for both the company and for Health Canada.

Thank you for taking time to read my statement, and thank you for the work you do to protect the public at large.

Sincerely,

cc: CEN Biotech, inc

Why I continue to invest and support my beloved company,..Creative Edge Nutrition/CEN Biotech Inc.

To whom it may concern,

I'm not much of a letter writer, so please bear with me. I will not be providing an intellectual and argumentative view that some of my dear family of shareholders will provide. I will try to convey why I am invested nonetheless.

As you are aware, Creative Edge Nutrition/CEN Biotech Inc, is under a relentless attack by Canadian media and stock manipulators. I have never witnessed such an assault on a company in my entire life, yet I still invest today! Why would a middle class citizen of the United States invest 75% of his savings in a nutrition company over a year ago and still continue today? Because Bill Chaaban and associates, represent everything that I value in a company. As a CEO myself of a small service company, I believe Quality should be the core strength of any company. I believe Bill and his associates (Creative Edge Nutrition/CEN Biotech inc) have proven themselves to everyone that Quality is a standard, not a goal.

I invested in Creative Edge Nutrition over a year ago and continue today. I am surrounded by the most intelligent and passionate group of investors. Granted, some are more emotional than others, we are still a family. I discovered Bill Chaaban when I was experimenting with marijuana stock investments over a year ago. I had very little experience investing money and I did countless hours of research. I cannot speak for everyone, but when I personally came across "FITX", I felt and continue to feel that my investment has a fighting chance because I have a CEO whom is passionate and actually cares about the shareholder, which I must say appears to be rare in the OTC world. Why does it seem that outside forces work so hard to protect their ability to short a stock and real investors have to suffer? I can't imagine what it feels like to watch your company name get destroyed while being traded on the OTC and still fight to get a fair shake.

It is clear that medical marijuana is here to stay, and will there will be nearly world-wide acceptance at some point. Health Canada's medical marijuana programs desperately needs a company who is "First to quality". I truly believe that CEN Biotech is in position to provide Canada and the world with a team whom is dedicated to provide life saving medicine. It would be a great benefit to patients, the country and for Health Canada to issue CEN Biotech Inc. a license. Those companies whom are producing moldy marijuana should be ashamed of themselves and Health Canada should be even more ashamed for supporting these companies while mishandling CEN Biotech.

WHEN IT COMES TO MEDICINE, QUALITY AND SAFETY SHOULD BE A STANDARD, NOT A GOAL.

Please don't let political corruption destroy what could be the best thing for everyone. Despite all of this nonsense, I truly believe in what Bill and associates are doing and will continue to support them as long as they are around.

I love Creative Edge Nutrition and CEN Biotech Inc.

I hope this helps on some level to understand what type of investor is involved and why. I am a real shareholder, with real hard earned money at stake because I believe in what my investment represents as I ultimately support the goal of providing quality health care to patients in need using groundbreaking research and

I am a 23 year old shareholder from the States. Fitx is one of many companies I have added to my stock portfolio since I started investing, have been following and investing into this company for over a year compiling upwards of 2.1 million shares.

Company wise I feel I have not been misled by any person with organization or board member. I believe they have always stated their goal as to become a large grower of medicinal marijuana at a lower price and better quality. From the outside looking in to me it seems they have fought tooth and nail for this and I am content with their efforts as a whole.

I do feel I have been misled by the integrity of Canadian government and businesses surrounding this sector, but not by personnel of Fitx. From Municipal powers inviting a company to their city with open arms then changing their laws n moods towards a company after a large investment in land development. To seeing HC employees with deep money/friend/interest ties with other licensed producers in the mmpr program. And lastly to the media/bloggers that "are not funded by competing organizations" who can afford to attack one company and only one company passionately in the sector with out any personal or financial gain stemming from it?

After it all and seeing how Fitx has handled itself through everything so far I believe I would invest in them again. But after seeing the people/organizations that Fitx would have to deal with and the 'potential' deep level of corruption surrounding this sector.... knowing Fitx would not be greasing pockets along the way I would have to rethink about investing to a clean company trying to get into what I now see as a dirty game ran by the rich from behind closed doors, with no care for the patients they are suppose to be helping and serving.

These are my beliefs and beliefs only, I am just an outsider looking in with the power of a Google search bar. Thank you for your time.

Hi,

I am an investor in Creative Edge Nutrition / CEN Biotech (FITX) that trades on the OTC Pink Market here in the United States and is looking the open a MMPR Licensed operation in Lakeshore, Ontario. I read an article by Grant Robertson of the Globe and Mail that stated that CEN Biotech is being investigated by the OSC. I am confused and am curious about OSC's jurisdiction in to the trading conspiracies that have been purported to in the media. Creative Edge Nutrition, the parent company of CEN Biotech, trades in the United States markets and not in the Canadian Exchanges.

According to a Grant Robertson Globe and Mail article Sent from my iPhone

"The Canadian loophole

Were it not for a convenient loophole in Canadian securities regulations, shareholders would be able to know a lot more about CEN Biotech. And Canadians could more closely examine the company that seeks to dominate the medical marijuana industry.

Last summer, securities administrators across the country discussed a new rule called Multilateral Instrument 51-105, which states that OTC market companies in the U.S. that want to operate in Canada must comply with Canadian reporting rules – which means filing prospectuses, audited financials and other disclosure documents typically expected of a public company.

The goal was to improve disclosure standards for these companies and to discourage abusive "promotional activities," such as inaccurate or exaggerated claims made to investors.

The new rule, proposed by British Columbia, was accepted by the other provinces – except Ontario, which disagreed that it was needed.

That means a company like Creative Edge doesn't have to answer to the Ontario Securities Commission.

In an e-mailed statement, the OSC said it investigated last year to see if such problems were an issue but "has not found sufficient evidence of abusive activity being conducted in Ontario."

Health Canada now finds itself in the position of potentially granting a licence to a company that I have never, NEVER, seen such outrageous and appalling attacks on any company like the ones that have been committed on Cen Biotech and its CEO Bill Chaaban. First to whom it concerns the most: I am a retail investor and own shares of Cen Biotech Inc. It is my pleasure in reporting a briefing of my full confidence owning shares with Cen Biotech Inc. This company is lawful and beneficial to it's shareholders and board of directors. And that this company is fulfilling and obeying every lawful step to operate a Super Grow Facility. From the very beginning Cen Biotech Inc has satisfied my investments with facts and press releases. The CEO has added the very best talent to the board of directors. This does and will enable Cen Biotech Inc to reach the goals lawfully. Though to reach the goals are difficult and far reaching, my investment stand secure in the facts of law and regulations. Cen Biotech Inc. is following the guideline set each and every step. The facts will prove this company is lawfully able to obey every letter of the law presented to it to obey.

Now: For the love of truth, and the benefit of truth please disregard all the tremendous propaganda that circulates in the circle of gossip and news reports of journalists that repetitively remanufacture and embellish every opportunity to happily slander Cen Biotech Inc.

Subject: Important CEN-Biotech info from a health care provider

To: Rona.ambrose@parl.gc.ca

Hello and good evening Minister Ambrose. From one health care professional to another, I am writing to you as a long-term investor in CEN-Biotech (ticker FITX), and in full support of the company. I would like to give some historical background and some investor perspective, from someone who has watched the company from the very beginning. I would sincerely appreciate if you would spend the time to read it, and pass it on to all who may be involved in any decision making processes having to do with CEN-Biotech, including licensing by Health Canada, and any potential ongoing investigations of the company.

I initially invested in this company in April 2011 when they announced they would be entering the sports nutrition supplement industry (an interest of mine). Creative Edge Nutrition initially reverse merged into a defunct company (ticker LBGE) in 2011 to expedite the process of becoming public and bring products to market. The initial CEO of Creative Edge Nutrition (Paul Thomas) announced a product they were going to formulate called Metabolic Xtreme. It was more of a concept and he was slow in moving it forward, and never actually did.

Creative Edge Nutrition subsequently brought in Bill Chaaban to replace him in April 2012 as the new CEO. Shortly after becoming CEO, Bill Chaaban announced milestones and goals that he wanted to accomplish over the next couple years in terms of bringing these sports nutrition products to market. He was starting from scratch. However, not only did he bring Metabolic Xtreme to market, but he quickly brought several other products through research and development and to market, including AminoPlex and HyperInfusion. I still use the AminoPlex nutritional products almost daily, and they are great. The products were quickly brought to market on the biggest online supplement websites, particularly bodybuilding.com, where these products were outselling more than half of all products sold on that site at one point.

Mr. Chaaban also wanted to get a ticker change to reflect the current business that had nothing to do with the old business, so he had it changed from LBGE to FITX. Not only did he get the nutritional side of the company up and running strongly (which is still ongoing), he announced and began development of the medical marijuana subsidiary (CEN-Biotech) in 3/2013. Given the goals announced for the nutritional side, all of which were followed through strategically over the next couple years, I knew that Mr. Chaaban had integrity, character, and was goal-driven. I can easily pick out these characteristics being in the medical field. So, I knew he would work diligently no differently with the CEN-Biotech subsidiary, which he did from the beginning and has continued to do.

Similarly to how he announced goals and plans for the nutritional side of the company, and followed through on every one of them, he also announced goals and plans for the newly formed subsidiary CEN-Biotech. As investors, we again began to see steady progress from the build out of the facility in Lakeshore Ontario (following full approvals from the Town of Lakeshore, as well as receiving a Ready to Build letter from Health Canada), industry networking, and other tangible progress. Everything continued to appear on track and followed his earlier announcements precisely.

Bill Chaaban recruited an absolutely amazing board of directors (BOD) and medical team consisting of expert physician-scientists with world-renowned recognition and NIH-funding in the medical, scientific, research, and financial industries including a prior senior level executive at Fidelity and JPMorgan, as well as John Germinario, who works with the US SEC (securities exchange commission). The magnitude and achievements of these personnel are proof that they would not be joining just any company if the company were not legitimate.

Everything continued to be on track and correlated accurately with every announcement made. Then, we began to run into delays, which were due to Health Canada taking much longer than expected for coming to inspect the CEN-Biotech facility. These delays were months and months despite the company being ready for inspection. This added to decreasing share price. When they finally did come to inspect many months later, the report stated that approval was recommended pending the correction of 2 minor issues (a screen over a vent, and the security camera angle). Again, we began to wait many more months for final approval, even though these minor issues were quickly fixed. Again, this caused the share price to decline further.

In these many months of delay, the Town of Lakeshore began to change their stance. They initially welcomed the company to Lakeshore in a public video <http://vimeo.com/83685127> and had received approvals for their facility build-out. This public support of the town's officials was one reason many investors were attracted to the company. However, in more recent months while the delays due to Health Canada were occurring, they also decided to try to change the local bylaws and change the zoning in a way that would inhibit CEN-Biotech from operating. A few nearby residents began to complain about the project with outlandish claims/concerns just as license was coming, despite watching the buildings go up and saying nothing for all of the preceding months. It later came out in a letter by the company to the town councilors that some of these same few neighbors were attempting to extort significant compensation in monetary value and employment in return for their support of the company/building, which the company did not stand for (and rightfully so).

These few neighbors were able to influence their local councilors to attempt to write a new bylaw stating medical cannabis grow-ops need to be zoned industrial, not agricultural (CEN-Biotech is agricultural). From the medical perspective, this is a disastrous idea given environmental toxins in an industrial area, such as heavy metals and other microbial and inorganic toxins. The mayor also began to flip-flop regarding CEN-Biotech, suspected to be politically driven. There have been identical zoning motions passed by other towns that were struck down by the provincial government, saying that grow-ops do not require industrial zoning. The town clearly knew what was being built the whole time, provided building permits, along with the ready to build letter from Health Canada. There was a letter written from these few residents and their attorney to Health Canada as well asking them to delay/avoid license to CEN-Biotech, which added more delay. This of course led to a further decline in share price.

Along with the delay from the above issues, we began to see an assault against CEN-Biotech by the media. In particular, Grant Robertson of the Globe and Mail has targeted CEN-Biotech with a relentless assault of articles, many of which have not been based on true facts, or twisting of the actual facts. I have watched his articles timed with every time that the stock has a continued uptrend in share value. He will then release several articles in a row that cause the stock to drop significantly. I have watched this occur over and over. His misleading articles have alone caused the biggest loss of shareholder value. I honestly feel that he has a personal agenda against the company, likely being funded by trader groups, competitor companies (my guess), or something else. I sincerely hope that he is investigated for his role in loss of shareholder value, because he is a central piece. Matt Finston and Chris Parry are two bloggers and writers who have also been relentlessly attacking CEN-Biotech during all of the delays the company has suffered, driving share price even further down. In fact, Grant Robertson has quoted and discussed Matt Finston several times in his articles, and I wouldn't be surprised if these individuals were all working together somehow for a common goal of destroying the company through misleading articles and claims. I truly hope this investigation is fair and they are all investigated. Matt Finston has also talked about shorting FITX on his Twitter and there are shareholders who have all of these screenshots saved.

There is documentation of Libby Davies meeting with the Tilray lobbyists, and later on Libby was quoted in one of Grant Robertson's misleading articles on CEN-Biotech, also attacking the company herself. I hope that paper and money trails are evaluated with these individuals. A prior high-level Tweed executive was also attacking FITX on his Twitter. I honestly feel there is an orchestrated attack against the company in attempts to cause them to fail, likely from competitors who feel threatened by CEN-Biotech since they would be the largest grower upon licensure, and possibly from trading groups who could be shorting the stock. This is just speculation, but I wouldn't at all be surprised as I have watched everything closely unfold since the very beginning, before Mr. Chaaban even took over as CEO. These misleading articles, blogs, and events have now influenced Health Canada negatively, which led to license denial for CEN-Biotech. This is an unjust decision, based on misleading journalism with a skewed agenda.

Please read through this page on the CEN-Biotech website, which addresses many of these issues and investor concerns:

Never once did I feel misled in anyway by any announcements or public releases from the company or Mr. Chaaban. There are over 2100 investors alone on a dedicated CEN-Biotech investor page on the internet who feel the same way, which is why we have stuck it out continuously. We have lost significant value in our investments. This is not because of Bill Chaaban, or any statements he or the company has made. He has worked tirelessly to make the company a success, evident by all the historical progress I described above. These losses are purely due to the events, agendas, and manipulation discussed above, which have erroneously influenced Health Canada.

CEN-Biotech has been painted in a very unfair and blatantly untrue light in the media. As one of many investors, I'm sick of watching it happen with no repercussions against these individuals (such as Grant Robertson, Mayor Tom Bain and councilors, local neighbors in Lakeshore, Matt Finston, and Chris Parry). The only investigation that should be ongoing in my opinion is against Grant Robertson, these aforementioned individuals, the Town of Lakeshore, and Health Canada, rather than the company itself. I sincerely hope that your team will quickly find this to be the case.

As a neurologist who treats many disabling neurologic diseases, it is an absolute shame how much of a delay the company has sustained in beginning their research and development of medical cannabis strains and medications, all due to the influence from misleading articles and manipulative behaviors above, as well as unjust retroactive changes in bylaws that the town of Lakeshore has been attempting to pass. I continued to stay invested in CEN-Biotech because I was excited (and still am) with their plans for moving the science of medical cannabis forward, along with the outstanding medical professionals they had collected on their Board of Directors who would be involved in the research and company. It is honestly quite sad for the patients who need better quality medications, which CEN-Biotech has been waiting to begin production of, only to continue being delayed for unjust reasons based on false and misleading journalism as discussed above.

I implore you to please investigate fairly, and please investigate the entities mentioned above who have played the biggest role in loss of shareholder value. I have watched this company unfold from the very beginning. I have watched Bill Chaaban attain all of the company's stated goals until the above issues halted the company's progress. I only hope that these issues will be brought to light and the company is cleared and able to continue with their previously stated goals for the future.
