By resolution of the board of directors pursuant to a provision in the articles of incorporation this certificate establishes the following regarding the voting powers, designations, preferences, limitations, restrictions and relative rights of the following class or series of stock.

Resolution Overview:

The Series A Preferred Stock will comprise 5,000,000 shares, ranking senior to all other preferred stock classes, and will carry the right to elect one director, voting as a separate class. Each share of Series A Preferred Stock will have 100 votes on all matters presented to stockholders, a liquidation preference of $2.00 per share, and will be redeemable by the corporation at $4.00 per share on or before December 31, 2008. Additionally, holders of Series A Preferred Stock can opt to convert their shares into the corporation's common stock based on the prevailing "Conversion Ratio." In no event will the Series A Preferred Stock be subject to adjustments due to consolidations or splits of the corporation's common stock. To determine the Conversion Ratio, multiply the total number of issued and outstanding common stock shares immediately before the conversion notice by 0.25, and then divide the resulting number by 5,000,000. Any fractional shares resulting from the conversion will be rounded up to the nearest whole share.

Footnote: No preferred shares have been converted.

Resolution Overview:

The Series B Preferred Stock will consist of 4,000,000 shares, ranking senior to all other preferred stock classes except for Series A Preferred Stock, and will have the right to elect one director as a separate class. Additionally, holders of Series B Preferred Stock can opt to convert their shares into the corporation's common stock based on the prevailing "Conversion Ratio." Resolution Overview:

The Series C Convertible Preferred Stock, with a par value of $0.001 (the "Series C"), will consist of 10,000,000 shares. Series C will be senior to all other preferred stock classes of the Company, except for Series A and Series B. Each share of Series C will have 300 votes on all matters presented to shareholders and a liquidation preference of $2.00 per share, taking precedence over all other shares except Series A and Series B. Voting as a class, Series C will have the right to elect one director of the Company. The Company will have the option, but not the obligation, to redeem each share of Series C at a price of $4.00 per share on or before December 31, 2015. Series C will not be adjusted during any consolidation or split of the corporation's common stock. Upon receipt of a written conversion notice from the holder, each share of Series C will convert into the corporation's common stock using the Conversion Formula, as defined below. The Conversion Formula will be calculated by multiplying the issued and outstanding shares of common stock immediately prior to the conversion notice by 0.25 and then dividing that number by 5,000,000. For instance, if the corporation has 100,000,000 shares of common stock issued and outstanding, and all 5,000,000 shares of Series C provide a conversion notice, each share of Series C would convert into 5 shares of common stock. Any fractional shares of common stock resulting from the use of the Conversion Formula will be rounded up to the nearest whole share.

Footnote: No preferred shares have been converted.

4) Issuer's Business, Products and Services

The purpose of this section is to provide a clear description of the issuer's current operations.
(Please ensure that these descriptions are updated on the Company's Profile on www.otcmarkets.com).

A. Summarize the issuer's business operations (If the issuer does not have current operations, state "no operations")

Hop-on, Inc., a Nevada Corporation (HPNN.PK), is a prominent US-based international company specializing in the development and production of electronics, software distribution, and telecommunications hardware and services. Established in 1993, the company boasts a legacy of innovation and continuous market growth, remaining one of the few US-based wireless technology manufacturers. Hop-on is renowned for creating the first-ever CDMA disposable cell phone.

Currently, the company is advancing new digital content protection technologies, a rights management platform, and a decentralized social media network under the Digitalage® brand. Users will be able to access these services through web interfaces, web services, and dedicated apps for iOS, Android, and iPadOS.

Dedicated to transforming the best ideas into essential products desired worldwide, Hop-on collaborates with inventors and patent holders to introduce cutting-edge technology to the market at competitive prices. The company fills the gap left by conglomerates by producing high-quality products efficiently, leveraging contract manufacturing capabilities, emphasizing details, and swiftly bringing essential patent-protected products to market.

Hop-on's innovative and forward-thinking approach to market development has generated opportunities and shareholder value while making a global impact. The CEO and Chairman was a trailblazer on the Internet gaming industry, founding one of the largest Internet gaming sites worldwide.

Given the litigious environment in consumer electronics and personal computing hardware sectors, Hop-on has diligently secured vital patent portfolio license agreements for various technologies. These include mobile communications, computing and home entertainment devices, GSM, WCDMA, 4G LTE/5G, Wi-Fi, infrastructure equipment, base stations, controllers, circuit switched and packet switched core network elements (such as mobile switching, gateway servers, and support nodes), transmission equipment, home, visitor and equipment identity registers, network management, operation and maintenance equipment, subscriber terminals, fixed line networks, and multimedia services.

B. List any subsidiaries, parent company, or affiliated companies.

Hop-on Wireless, Inc. is a wholly owned subsidiary that is on the cutting edge of wireless technology. Our success in securing essential patents for GSM and CDMA technologies have resulted in license agreements with Qualcomm, Motorola, Inter Digital, Lucent, NEC, Alcatel, Ericsson, Philips and Siemens. Currently this subsidiary is not current in the State of Nevada.

Digitalage, Inc., a Nevada Corporation and wholly owned subsidiary, is developing a platform with global reach that fosters open and free sharing of ideas and content, as well as dialogue and debate within the boundaries of U.S. law. Additionally, the platform shares revenue with content creators. Digitalage is working on patent-pending technologies for Digital Rights Management.

As a decentralized social media, peer-to-peer communication, and streaming entertainment platform, Digitalage also offers personal online data storage, content protection, and digital rights management. The platform is built upon cutting-edge technologies, sophisticated deep learning models, and a strong commitment to free speech, fair compensation, and democratic principles. Digitalage is driving innovation in user interface, user experience, accessibility, recommendation and matchmaking algorithms, social responsibility, royalty collection and distribution, crowd working, and the creation and consumption of entertainment and journalism.

C. Describe the issuers' principal products or services.

Hop-on is utilizing our license agreements with essential patent holders to create revenues where international conglomerates have failed. Their failures to properly obtain licenses to the intellectual property rights of high tech and complicated technologies, to negotiate in good faith or pay royalties to patent holders has resulted in multi billions of dollars invested in products with no ability to sell those technologies in litigious countries that protect patented ideas.

Hop-on has existing relationships with wireless carriers worldwide which now have fewer hardware and software options. Industry consolidations, as well as IPR and security issues experienced by Huawei, ZTE, and others have changed the landscape for enterprise and consumer markets within the mobile and computing industry.

Through our diverse IP portfolio, ODM and supply chain resources, and extensive industry experience, Hop-on is poised to command vital positions in the buildout and retrofitting of 5G and other next generation networks, adding high-demand and competitive capabilities such as Multimedia Broadcast Multicast Services (MBMS), M2M infrastructure, the latest in regionally compliant network security and authentication, and streamlined IoT activation and management.

In the US and EU, consolidation has created niche markets with fewer hardware and software providers that have the proper IPRs. Hop-on is now ready to provide a US-based alternative for Huawei, ZTE, and others that have been effectively barred from executing contracts with US and European carriers over national security concerns, violating IPRs, or selling and exploiting personal and business data from end-users.

Based in Temecula, CA, Hop-on, Inc. manufactures and sells computers, communications products, and consumer electronics. We are also diligently working on building-out capability to manufacture high-tech products in the continental United States. Our products are sold in the United States under the Hop-on brand and have or currently include laptops, tablet computers, mobile phones, and computer monitors. Hop-on is expanding its operations around the world but is focused on markets in the US.

Hop-on is under patent license agreement with Nokia to manufacture, use and sell licensed H.264/AVC decoding products. The H.264 Advanced Video Codec standard as promulgated by ITU-T H.264 (05/2003), MPEG-4 PART 10, and ISO/IEC 14496-10:2003 utilizes fundamental and innovative contributions made by Nokia that reduce the amount of digital data needed to represent video. Nokia's innovations allow video to be transmitted over communications networks, such as cellular networks, with high quality and dramatically lower bandwidth requirements. Nokia's innovations also significantly reduce the size of video files, allowing more efficient storage on mobile devices. Licensed products can more efficiently and effectively stream video over communications networks.

5) Issuer's Facilities

The goal of this section is to provide a potential investor with a clear understanding of all assets, properties or facilities owned, used or leased by the issuer and the extent in which the facilities are utilized.

In responding to this item, please clearly describe the assets, properties or facilities of the issuer, give the location of the principal plants and other property of the issuer and describe the condition of the properties. The Company utilizes a PO BOX 940, Temecula CA 92593-0940. The Company also has satellite offices in Temecula, California and Austin, Texas. There are no other substantial leases, assets, or property, other than the intellectual property which is detailed in the Financial Statements and the Notes to the Financial Statements.

Hop-on has implemented remote work arrangements to conserve resources, while we are pre-revenue which is evident our financial statements. Key reasons for this transition include:

Lower office space costs: Remote work allows Hop-on and Digitalage to significantly cut expenses related to office space, such as rent and utilities, thus reducing operating costs and potentially increasing profitability.

Enhanced employee productivity: Remote work can lead to increased productivity, as employees face fewer distractions and shorter commutes, resulting in improved financial performance.

Decreased employee turnover: Remote work options can boost employee satisfaction and work-life balance, leading to lower turnover rates and reduced recruitment and training costs.

Wider talent pool: Remote work enables access to a larger talent pool without geographic limitations, improving business performance and financial outcomes.

Reduced travel expenses: Remote work arrangements can substantially decrease travel expenses, as employees collaborate virtually, leading to cost savings that positively impact financial statements.
